

Pinaki Bhattacharyya is the MD and CEO of Amp Energy India, a leading renewable energy player in India. Amp Energy India is committed to providing renewable energy solutions and driving responsible growth while building a balanced portfolio of C&I and utility customers.

Amp Energy India is an industry leader in providing a one stop shop for C&I customers through its powerful combination of large utility scale and C&I renewable energy projects with a pan India presence helping the customers to transition to 100% RE. With a portfolio of 2+GW across 15 states catering to 60+ marquee customers in India, Amp Energy India plans to scale up to 5GW in the next 5 years.

Pinaki Bhattacharyya has 22+ years of experience in India, US and Europe across PE, business incubation, leadership, operating and financing roles in the renewable energy sector. Prior to Amp, Pinaki was the CFO of Sterlite Power, India's leading transmission player. Additionally, he was the founding team member and CFO of one of the largest renewable IPPs in India (Sembcorp Green Infra) and the founding team member of the first renewable energy project equity fund in the US, New Energy Capital. He has managed the largest and most diversified renewable energy private equity portfolio of USD 300M for IDFC Private Equity. He has worked across the value chain in both renewable and thermal power generation at ALSTOM and Shell-Bechtel venture, Intergen. He has an MBA from Cornell University and B.E. from Delhi College of Engineering.